

International Symposium on A Green Recovery from COVID-19

November 4 and 5, 2020

Akira Suzuki Hall,
HOKKAIDO UNIVERSITY
North 13 West 8, Kita-ku, Sapporo

Main Speakers (Zoom)

How the transition to a bioeconomy can contribute to a sustainable post-Corona economy

—Dr. Iris Lewandowski

Professor of University of Hohenheim, Germany / European Bioeconomy University

Nitrous oxide emission and mitigation: intensively grazed pastures

—Dr. Timothy Clough

Professor of Environmental Biochemistry at Lincoln University, NZ / Guest Professor of GCF, Hokkaido University

WFP's response to the COVID-19 pandemic

—Ms. Masae Shimomura

Government Partnerships Officer, World Food Programme (WFP) Japan Relations Office

Symposium Chair:

Dr. Toshihiko Yamada, Professor of Field Science Center for Northern Biosphere and GCF, Hokkaido University

Organized by Global Center for Food, Land and Water Resources - GCF, Research Faculty of Agriculture, Hokkaido University

Co-organized by Graduate School of Global Food Resources, Faculty of Engineering, and Research and Education Center for Robust Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries Industry

Supported by Global Institution for Collaborative Research and Education - GI-CoRE, Hokkaido University

For any inquiries, please contact:

Global Center for Food, Land and Water Resources (GCF),
Research Faculty of Agriculture, Hokkaido University
TEL: +81-11-706-3866
E-Mail: gcf@agr.hokudai.ac.jp

Please RSVP

HOKKAIDO
UNIVERSITY